

3. (a)
 - (b) The probability function would evaluate to 3.38719 for these values, but it would be skipped because the neighboring value is greater than the current value, so the move would be taken with probability 1.